Double-ball head design, fully adjustable through 360°

Uses an adjustable double-ball head structure and single-knob adjustment design. While being portable, it can still tilt and rotate through 360° and meet the needs of shooting different scenes and angles. It can be used to connect cameras and auxiliary equipment such as lights, monitors, and microphones.

Flexible Alai positioning structure

The flexible Alai positioning structure design effectively improves the stability of the equipment connection and can be widely adapted for most normal ¼" interface equipment without Alai holes.

Compact and lightweight, easy to carry

Modular design, foldable for storage, compact and lightweight.

Aluminium alloy material

The appearance is attractive, using a combination of metal and silicone. It is both rigid and flexible, which not only meets the high-strength requirements of the connector but also gives it a beautiful appearance and comfortable feel.

Standard cold shoe mount

Equipped as standard with a cold shoe male connector to allow external equipment such as a camera cold shoe mount or camera cage cold shoe mount.
