The SLIK PRO 700DX LEG can handle the weight of a professional full-frame DSLR camera with a heavy long telephoto lens. It offers photographers the strength and stability they need on flat and uneven surfaces. SLIK's exclusive AMT super titanium alloy legs make the PRO 700DX tripod rock steady yet lighter than its competitors with similar max weight capacities.

“What’s so great about AMT alloy?” It has 40% greater strength to weight ratio than standard aluminum. The legs weigh less and are stronger than the standard aluminum used in most of today’s tripods. All at a price you cannot beat.

Note, the PRO 700DX is full-sized, with just the legs extended and the center column down the camera is already at eye level for most people.

Raise the smooth gearless center column to its maximum height and your camera is more than 1,700mm off the ground!
