Features

The SLIK SGH-300 is a compact gimbal head, provides smooth Pan/Tilt tracking of moving subjects, which is an important feature for wildlife photographers, bird watchers, and naturarist. The compact and lightweight design allows for easier transport into remote locations while providing same performance of larger and heavier versions. The SGH-300 supports up to a 3.0kg load yet weights only 800g. This is perfect for full-frame mirrorless and DSLR systems while using popular super-telephoto zoom lenses like the 150-600mm.

- Compact gimbal head with arca swiss quick release plate
- Fore-and-aft balancing adjustment
Consider the weight difference between the camera and the lens and adjust the balance position front or back by sliding the quick shoe to align the center of gravity of the total load
- Camera Platform Height Adjustment
The height of the camera platform can be adjusted to align the optical axis of the lens to the tilting axis of the gimbal head.
When the optical axis is aligned with the tilting axis, the camera can be set to hold in the vertical direction any position

- Arca-type quick release plate

The tool free design offers easy and quick set-up on location. The Arca-type camera platform allows for quick camera attachment and release

- System Case

The package comes with exclusive system case
